

ANOTHER OLD LANDMARK GONE

Edwards Hotel, at Ninth and Farnam, Gives Way to a New Structure.

WAS BUILT IN EARLY DAYS

The wrecking of the old three-story frame hotel building at Ninth and Farnam streets, directly south and across Farnam street from the Union Pacific's old headquarters, marks the passing of another of the pioneer landmarks of Omaha.

The old hotel building that is now being demolished by the wrecking crew was known from coast to coast in the days when Omaha was in its waddling clothes and was known as hostelry of considerable importance.

Along in 1867, although Omaha was only a frontier town, owing to the great amount of travel passing through its gates, there was a demand for more hotel facilities.

Omaha Needed a Hotel.

Along in 1867, although Omaha was only a frontier town, owing to the great amount of travel passing through its gates, there was a demand for more hotel facilities.

Named It Edwards.

Having completed the hotel to perpetuate his name, Dr. Edwards called the new hotel the Edwards, and a Mr. Godfrey, who later, plied Godfrey's addition to the city of Omaha, became the first proprietor.

For two years the hotel continued as the Edwards and then it was sold. With the sale there came a change of name and for some years it was known as the Casement, in honor of one of the men who had the contract for the construction of a long stretch of the Union Pacific grade.

Paddock Takes Charge.

The following year a new proprietor in the person of Senator Paddock came onto the scene and took charge as proprietor. With his coming the name of the hotel was again changed and this time to the Wyoming.

Accord to move west the Wyoming lost caste as a first-class hotel, but it continued to be a home-like place for those who were not seeking too much style.

The Daily stuck to the hotel for several years more and as such it was known until not long ago, when this name was dropped and the place became a lodging house.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS Charles J. Greenstreet, President, St. Louis, Mo. Robert Seeger, Wallbach Lighting Co., St. Louis, Mo. Harry B. Fardwell, Engineer, St. Louis, Mo. James Scott, Capitalist, Pittsburgh, Pa. Franklin G. Colby, Vice-Pres't & Treas. Henry G. Evans, Secretary, Philadelphia, Pa. I. M. Simonin, Oils.

General Offices: 115 Broadway, New York. Transfer Agent & Registrar: United States Corporation Co., New York.

We summarize from letter of Charles J. Greenstreet, President of the Corporation, the following: COMMERCIALLY PROVED REVOLUTIONARY PROCESS OF MANUFACTURE

The Corporation is the owner, under broad and basic patents, both as to method and apparatus, of a process involving a new and revolutionary principle of refining oils, which converts 65 per cent of 80 per cent of low grade cheap kerosene, gas oils and other distillates, as well as crude oil, into the highest grade Gasoline and Naphthas, free from Carbon and Grease, and developing from 25 per cent to 30 per cent greater efficiency than the gasolines now being generally sold, thus rendering available for profitable utilization by this process the residue of other refineries after they have extracted all of the gasoline obtainable from crude oil by their methods, and opening the widest source of supply of raw materials at a cost much below the price of crude oil.

The patents and rights to patents cover the United States and its dependencies, Mexico, Central and South America, the West Indies, Asia, Africa, Australia, New Zealand, and Japan.

THE GASOLINE PROBLEM SOLVED The process has been in commercial use for over two years, has been subjected to the severest tests of experts and millions of gallons of the product have been sold at the highest market prices and given complete satisfaction. It requires less than two minutes to convert 40 per cent to 50 per cent of a kerosene distillate into gasoline.

The process requires very small investment for plant, and extremely low cost for operation and maintenance, as compared to all other known processes.

RIGHTS OF PREFERRED STOCK The Preferred Stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, is preferred both as to assets and dividends, and after the payment of dividends at the rate of 8 per cent upon the Common Stock, is entitled to participate pro rata in all excess earnings. At the option of the holder, it may be converted at any time into Common Stock at par for par. No mortgage or other funded lien can be placed upon the assets of the Corporation without the consent of 75 per cent of the outstanding Preferred Stock.

A GOING CONCERN The corporation owns three refineries now in full operation, producing at the rate of 10,000,000 gallons per year. Additions are now being made to the refineries from cash now in the Treasury which will increase capacity by August 1st, 1916, to 20,000,000 gallons per year.

PROFITS OF MANUFACTURE Gasoline produced by the Greenstreet process is being sold at a profit of 5 cents per gallon net to the corporation.

The Preferred Stock is being sold for the purpose of providing additional refineries, and the proceeds of the sale of the present offering of Preferred Stock will give a total capacity of 150,000,000 gallons per year.

EARNINGS Upon the basis of the present capacity, the net earnings are at the rate of $500,000 per year, or 7 times the dividend requirements on the Preferred Stock now outstanding. Upon the increase of capacity to 20,000,000 gallons, already provided for, the net earnings will be at the rate of $1,000,000 per year, or 14 times the dividend requirements on the Preferred Stock now outstanding.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION Having disposed of $900,000 of the Preferred Stock, we offer 420,000 shares, being the balance of the total authorized Preferred Stock, at $5.00 per share, for the purpose of increasing refinery capacity to 150,000,000 gallons per year. Applications for listing on New York and Boston Curbs will be made. The right is reserved to terminate this offer without notice, to reject any and all applications and to allot less than the amount applied for.

Checks payable to the undersigned for the full amount must accompany each application. Reservations may be made by wire at our expense.
